Lecture Series "Toward the only Language University in Taiwan, R.O.C." ~PART I

*Are you worried about your students' reading motivation?
 Participate in our lecture series! Maybe you can get some clues to help your students!*

Topic: The Efficacy and Efficiency of Extensive Reading

Speaker: Dr. Beniko Nanki-Mason

Beniko Nanki-Mason is an Associate Professor at Shitennoji International Buddhist University in Japan. She has a lot of experience in organizing and setting up extensive reading programs. In this connection, not only has she visited several schools to assist teachers in organizing extensive reading programs but also has given workshops on extensive reading to Kokusai Gaigo Senmon Gakko in 1985, International Buddhist University in 1986, Shoin Women's College in 1987, Philips University in 1989, Tezukayama Gakuin University in 1998, Kwansei Gakuin University in 1999, and Kansai University in 2000. Furthermore, Mrs. Nanki-Mason has given presentations which examined the effects of extensive reading (the Comprehensible Input Hypothesis) on different skills and motivation in learning. In addition, she has worked with Dr. Stephen Krashen on extensive reading since 1997.
