Main Text of Advertisement

This might include some brief information about the work area, the main duties of the position and the key selection criteria. Please include any vaccination requirements as per ANU procedure.(limit 150 words)

The School of CHL wishes to appoint a Senior Lecturer (Level C) in Taiwan Studies. The appointment will take a leading role in the development and implementation of the recently established Taiwan Studies Program, continuing to enhance and make more broadly available knowledge of the history, society, languages and culture of Taiwan and its academic engagement with the Asia- Pacific region.

The successful applicant will possess: native or near-native speaker fluency in Mandarin and fluent reading ability on Classical Chinese; a PhD in Taiwan Studies or in traditional Chinese Studies. Applicant should be able to demonstrate a strong research and publications record and be able to promote Taiwan Studies and Traditional Chinese Studies at the university.

The successful applicant will be able to demonstrate proven capacity to develop and deliver new courses that complement existing program and an ability to participate in undergraduate and postgraduate programmes such as the MA in Translation. In addition, applicants should have the ability and willingness to supervise students at Honours, Postgraduate and Research degree levels.
